FEDERAL LOAN REFUSED UNLESS BONDS ARE GIVEN AS SECURITY

Hope for the immediate construction of San Mateo county's deep water harbor at Redwood City must be abandoned—

Or general obligation bonds must be put up as security to cover the requested federal loan of $300,000!

This grave situation facing proposed harbor developments at Redwood City was revealed last night to a group of county-wide civic leaders by the San Mateo County Harbor Commission at a conference in the courthouse.

The harbor commissioners, Percy J. Shaw, chairman; S. A. Keyston, San Mateo, and Henry Beeger, Redwood City, pointed out to the civic leaders that they had pledged not to propose bonds for the improvement of the port during the existing emergency.

The harbor board will refuse to go back on that word—unless public sentiment demands that the bonds be submitted for a vote, Chairman Shaw declared.

Inability to secure a federal loan without putting up the bonds is the result of a change in policy by the public works administration since the harbor district was formed, Shaw pointed out. Every effort to secure the loan under a leasing arrangement had been made without success.

Policy Is Outlined

Philip B. Fleming, executive officer of the PWA at Washington, summed up the situation for the harbor commissioners in this statement of policy:

"Where a community has borrowing power, it must issue its bonds. In such a case we will not enter into the leasing arrangement. The fact that the applicant states that the voters will not authorize a bond issue is immaterial; the matter must be submitted to the electorate."

Consensus of the civic leaders outside of the harbor commission was that the voters should be given an opportunity to vote upon the proposal next August—if there was public sentiment in favor of such a vote.

"No Preconceived Ideas"

Carl Stoner, chairman of the old Redwood City harbor committee, told the civic leaders that there was "no preconceived idea" as to what to do before the meeting was called. The question was whether San Mateo county wanted to change its mind as the federal PWA had done.

Stoner said he would "hate to say we were licked after all the work that has been done."

Howard I. Wood, manager of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, declared that San Mateo county's harbor proposal was far more favorable than it had ever been—especially in view of the failure of the San Jose harbor district to carry.

Mayor William J. Dusel of Redwood City favored submitting the question to the voters in August, as the election could be held at that time without cost.

Urges "No Hesitancy"

J. W. Coleberd, prominent South San Francisco attorney, urged that there be "no hesitancy" in submitting the proposed issue.

R. Guy Smith of Moss Beach suggested sounding out public sentiment on the proposal by contacting club groups.

Shaw, in reply to a query, said the harbor would positively retire the bonds so that there would be no obligation on the part of the taxpayers. The voters would merely lend the credit to the district so the port facilities could be provided.

$350,000 Issue Needed

It is expected that about a $350,000 bond issue would be submitted.

The cost of the shore facilities will be about $378,000, it was estimated. Of this sum, $300,000 would be secured as a loan, and $78,000 as a federal grant. In addition, $94,000 would be required for paying one-half the cost of dredging. The other half would come from congress and has been approved by the war department.

Elmore B. Hinman, county clerk and harbor leader, pointed out that the proposed $350,000 issue would be equal to the relief bonds voted by San Mateo county. If the county were willing to vote relief bonds from which only temporary good could come, Hinman believed the voters would approve the extension of the county's credit on the harbor because the project would be self-supporting.

Hinman, as one of the original harbor boosters, said he felt he could not take the initiative in the bond submission.

Attorney Coleberd, at the conclusion of the discussion, moved, and John W. Rutherdale of San Carlos, seconded, the naming by the citizens' group of a committee of seven to sound out public sentiment so that the harbor commissioners could be guided by the people's wishes.

Judge James Debates Fate Of Dog Tracks

Non-Suit Plea Before Court; Abatement May Be Denied

Superior Judge William F. James of Santa Clara county, sitting here, today had taken under advisement a motion for a non-suit asked by Attorney Harold Faulkner on behalf of the Baden Kennel Club in the abatement proceedings brought by District Attorney Edmund Scott.

Faulkner lost a previous motion made when Scott rested the state's case, but he renewed it at the conclusion of the trial.

The dog track attorney contended that Scott had failed to prove that the Baden track, in permitting the use of the option system of betting, had created a "public nuisance" and should be abated.

Judge James, who said Scott's "complaint had stated a good cause of action," seriously questioned whether the state had given the court evidence to sustain an abatement verdict.

Will Inspect Premises

The jurist, in company with Sheriff James J. McGrath, the state's chief witness, was to visit the Baden club this afternoon to inspect the track and surroundings, and said he would rule on the abatement plea before the week is out.

On that ruling, fate of dog racing is believed to hinge. If Judge James denies the abatement injunction, the Baden and other peninsula tracks are expected to make plans for an early opening. If he grants the abatement, the Baden track will be permanently closed to racing and others may fear to open, it was said.

Faulkner attempted to argue before the court that the new state racing bill, which makes it possible to wager on horses under the pari-mutuel system, is discriminatory in not including the racing of dogs.

Could Discriminate

Judge James did not agree with him, saying that the people had the right to allow horse tracks to permit wagers while forbidding dog tracks the same privilege.

The San Jose jurist reported that his verdict would plainly not be based upon the question of the validity or invalidity of the option system. On that subject, the court declared, he held rather fixed convictions.

James appeared to agree with the contentions of Attorney Faulkner that Scott did not need to come into court with an abatement proceeding to halt the alleged gambling at Baden. Faulkner contended that criminal prosecution of the defendants would have been the more proper course if there had been any evidence of gambling.

Prosecution Preferred

James declared his belief that it would be "rather easy" to prosecute operators of the Baden Kennel Club because of the lack of concealment of the sale or redemption of options.

He cited the sheriff's own testimony that the law enforcement officer had openly walked about the premises, had purchased options and redeemed them and had lost money on one transaction and gained some on another.

James denied the first motion for a non-suit "with mental reservations." He also asked the "feminine privilege" of "changing his mind."

This was the cue for Faulkner to renew his motion and when the attorney did so, Judge James said he would take the question under advisement with the promise of an early ruling.

SPRING OPENING EVENT SET HERE FOR MARCH 8

Thursday afternoon, March 8th, Redwood City merchants will hold their annual spring opening and style show, it was announced today by P. A. Ryan, newly-elected head of the merchants' division of the chamber of commerce.

Merchants' windows will be decorated especially for the event and some stores plan to have living models display the newest in fashions.

The 60-piece Sequoia Union High School band, under the direction of Max Gelber, will officially herald the arrival of spring and the opening of the merchants' event. The band will march throughout the business district and give selections at various places on the route.

Combined with the fashion showing, local hardware and department stores will join with a complete spring showing of garden tools, painting equipment and implements, proclaiming the opening of a clean-up, and fix-up week which should see every Redwood City home participating.

Newest spring furniture, jewelry and all other lines will also be presented for the shoppers' approval.

A committee of merchants composed of Charles Nelson, J. P. Hearne, Charles Douglas, Max Beder, D. P. Washburn and Clarence Choate is now making arrangements for the event.

PUBLIC DESERVES SAY IF THE HARBOR BONDS SHOULD PASS OR NOT

[EDITORIAL]

Confronted with making a decision of the gravest consequence to the future of San Mateo county—that of deciding the fate of the projected San Mateo County Deep Water Harbor at Redwood City—the San Mateo County Harbor Commission today is appealing for a public expression on whether or not a $300,000 bond issue to undertake the proposal should be put on the August ballot.

In view of all that the harbor will mean industrially and commercially to the future of San Mateo county, in view of the burden which it will lift from the home owner by creating industries and filling up the tidelands with factories that will lighten the tax load, in view of the jobs and payrolls that it will create, the question is one upon which not much second thought would be required to decide its merits.

But there is that matter of a pledge made a year ago when the district was formed that there would be no debt created by obligating the taxpayers. Yet when that pledge was made it was the clear policy of the federal government under the Public Works Administration to advance the necessary $300,000, plus a $78,000 gift, to assure the undertaking.

The commissioners, therefore, pledged not to lean upon the credit of the district. They have no desire now to go back on that promise without public authorization. But the impasse which has been reached in the change of mind of the federal government in refusing to allow any district that has ample credit to secure a loan unless bonds are posted, creates so vital a situation that the commissioners certainly cannot be bound by that pledge.

They should, with only the hesitancy necessary for the public to say: "Go Ahead!" agree to submit the issue next August.

* * * * * *

After all, that step will create no debt. Only the public can do that. If the voters next August, when they go to the polls in the regular county elections, do not choose to approve the bonds, then it still has cost nothing!

But if the voters, mindful of the importance of harbor development as they were when they voted overwhelmingly in favor of the port district—the vote standing 11 to 1 and 7 to 1 in places and 4 to 1 over the county—then it is a serious decision which the commissioners choose to make in blocking the people's say on the question.

The bonds, if voted, will be self-liquidating, the highest federal, state and harbor authorities have declared, because the tonnage is here to assure the success of the port. It still will not cost the taxpayers anything!

The harbor commission must not feel itself bound by a pledge made in good faith which cannot be kept now because of changes in federal policy. If it were the commissioners who themselves created the debt, it would be different. But the commissioners will only submit—the people will say whether the debt will be created or not!

* * * * * *

If the harbor was a sound project when the district was formed, it is a sound project now.

If there was the assurance then that it would prove self-supporting and would retire its obligations without cost to the taxpayer, that same assurance holds now.

If there was assurance of success for the port one year ago when Santa Clara county considered a similar project—then there is far more assurance now when that latter project has been abandoned because natural conditions at Alviso did not compare with those at Redwood City.

* * * * * *

Think seriously, Commissioners Shaw, Keyston and Beeger, and then give us the right to say whether or not we want to vote the harbor bonds and lend the credit of the county to the soundest project ever dreamed!

Floods Give Stock Shares To Mrs. Gavin

Brief Court Session Held in S. F. Today

Arrangements were made today at a surprise court hearing in San Francisco to turn over to Mrs. Constance May Gavin shares valued at more than $1,000,000 in a settlement of her suit for a daughter's share of the James Flood estate, according to the United Press.

Final determination of the settlement and of the estate are scheduled to be made here at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

In a court session lasting a half-hour, Superior Judge George A. Cabaniss of San Francisco today approved a petition brought by Mrs. Maud Lee Flood and her son, James L. Flood, to turn over 5896 shares of capital stock of the Flood Realty Company.

The petition declared that the recognized Flood heirs did not recognize Mrs. Gavin's claim of being a daughter of the late Menlo Park capitalist, and recited that the settlement was being made to avoid further litigation over the estate.

Today's action in San Francisco was done as a matter of convenience, it was declared.

Methods Used Checking Ice Weights Told

To prevent misinterpretation by the public of a statement issued on February 18 by J. S. Casey, chief of the state division of weights and measures, and widely published in the newspapers, Mr. R. J. Bailey, president of the California Association of Ice Industries, dispatched the following letter today to Mr. Casey:

"Dear Sir:

"In the newspapers of February 18 an article was run containing a mathematical formula credited to you for checking the weight of ice delivered to homes, in order, according to the article, that the housewife may know if the ice man is cheating.

"The great bulk of the state's ice industry knows and heartily supports the vigilant efforts of your department and the various county sealers to insure full weight ice, and your department is familiar with the automatic scoring method by which fully 90% of the state's ice tonnage is delivered to the home with the weight accurately predetermined.

"By the automatic scoring method, the blocks of ice as they come from the freezing tanks are placed in a mathematically accurate machine which cuts grooves in the ice, so that in serving the customer the delivery salesman merely separates the blocks at the grooved places in order to bring his customers ice of 25, 50 or 100 pound weights.

"As a matter of fact, the ice is not merely full weight, but overweight. When the blocks are taken from the freezing tanks they are 5% overweight to allow for meltage during delivery. This insures at least full weight, and often over weight delivery in the homes.

"The California Association of Ice Industries has long advocated state-wide adoption of the automatic scoring method as herein described, and now all but a few companies, and those of a minor nature, are using it.

"The records of your office and the county sealers will unquestionably show that where the automatic scoring system for ice is used, short weights have been entirely eliminated.

"(Signed) R. J. BAILEY,
President, California Association of Ice Industries."

El Camino Real's Widening Wins 4-1 Vote From Owners

By a vote of four to one on a frontage basis and three to one numerically, owners of property fronting on El Camino Real within the city limits of Redwood City last night gave approval to the establishment of a 17-foot setback line.

This is the first step in the ultimate widening to 100 feet—if and when the state provides the necessary funds or the city undertakes it. The highway width at present is 66 feet, with an existing 7-foot setback.

Forty-two property owners representing 4,535 feet of the approximate 8,900 feet within the city limits favored the establishment of the 17-foot setback line.

Against the proposal were 15 property owners who controlled 1130 feet.

The vote was recorded on a motion put by John E. Layng, owner of a 50-foot strip, and second of Mrs. Margaret Fantina, who controlls 65 feet.

No State Funds Now

It came in the face of reports by Col. John H. Skeggs, division engineer of the state highway commission, who addressed the joint meeting of the city council and planning commission, that the state at the present time has no funds to purchase the right of way or to immediately aid the project financially.

Skeggs declared that what progress is made in the improvement must first come from the property owners in an expressed willingness to establish the 17-foot setback line. The state, he said, would not consider undertaking the improvement on less than the required 100-feet width.

The division engineer declared that the property owners, except for the restriction that they could not build new permanent-type buildings beyond the setback line, would not be deprived of the use of their property in establishing the setback.

Will Pay Market Value

When the state is ready to widen the highway and will require the additional frontage, then it will pay the market value of the property at that time, Skeggs said.

Skeggs declared that the existence of the 17-foot setback would not depreciate the value of the property which would continue to demand the fair market value.

The division engineer suggested as a solution to the need for a wider highway a "piece-meal" construction, with one or two blocks to be undertaken at a time with the state and city co-operating. The city's funds could come from the one-quarter cent gasoline tax, which in the next biennium will bring between $11,000 and $12,000, Skeggs estimated.

Skeggs saw the possibility that funds to purchase additional rights-of-way from San Mateo to Palo might be included in the next biennium's budget.

Tells State Co-operation

He said the state has expended money in virtually all cities of the state, but not to the full extent of the improvement. He cited $55,000 given to Palo Alto to aid in the Mayfield "bottleneck" widening; $600,000 given to San Francisco, and $93,000 to Oakland, on "co-operative" projects.

Had Redwood City established its highway width to state standards, Skeggs said, there would likely have been some funds from state and federal sources in the current biennium.

With estimates for the purchase of the rights of way and paving running from $250,000 to $500,000, Mark Ryan, who has an interest in 166 feet of frontage, asked Skeggs what percentage of this expense would be borne by the state.

Skeggs reply was that none could be expected until "local interest" is shown in the project.

Ryan asked what percentage of the Mayfield job was borne by Palo Alto. Skeggs said the city's quarter-cent gas tax for the entire biennium and $5,000 more were voted.

Dave Walter, highway property owner and realtor, who opposed the establishment of the setback, asked what San Mateo, Burlingame and Atherton had done, and urged that no line be fixed until cities to the north and south had acted.

Wants Taxes Lessened

"Al" Davies, owner of an automobile agency and garage, who favored the proposal because he saw a chance for "action" under state control, asked Mayor William J. Dusel, who presided, if the council would find it possible to lessen the taxes on the 17-foot strip which would become "dead" if the setback were established. The mayor said that would be a matter which the council would consider.

Daniel Stafford, former mayor and owner of highway and other property, favored setting a limit of years in which the work should be undertaken if the setback were approved. This was fixed in the motion at five years.

Daniel Flynn, county assessor, asked if the city would permit the removal of wooden frame residences within the fire limits when the highway is widened or if these would be ordered razed. City Attorney Albert Mansfield said the council could give consideration to such permits under the circumstances.

United Air Lines Will Continue Full Schedules

Cities of the bay district will continue to have air passenger-express service despite the cancelling of air mail contracts, it is announced by S. A. Stimpson, district traffic manager of United Air Lines.

The company will fly all of its extisting passenger-express schedules now operating from the San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and Fresno airports so that these cities may have service to 44 other cities in 20 states. This means that Northern California cities will have twice-a-day service with United's three-mile-a-minute multi-motored planes to Portland and Seattle, five schedules a day to Los Angeles and San Diego, and three a day to Salt Lake City, Chicago, New York and eastern points.

United Air Lines will fly more than a million miles a month with its transports. It is the largest transport system in the world and has been flying out of San Francisco bay area for eight years. It recently flew its 65,000,000th mile.

The company will endeavor to hold its present personnel of 1,450 employees. It increased its personnel 30 per cent during the past year. It has 250 pilots and 100 stewardesses, in addition to radio operators, mechanics, inspectors, dispatchers, overhaul and repair crews, instrument experts, technicians, and men in other crafts required in airplane operation.

There will be no interruption of express service. United is one of five companies using the collection and delivery service of the Railway Express Agency in a nationwide air and air-rail express service.

Four out of five persons answering a questionnaire on adult education courses desired at Springfield, Mo., wanted homemaking instruction.

COUNTY GETS NINE ADDED CWA GRANTS

Quota of Men Again Faces Reduction to 1296 Total

Expenditure of $19,174.80 for nine supplementary CWA projects in San Mateo county was approved today by Capt. Edward Macauley, state federal CWA administrator.

In the meantime, the county's quota of CWA workers was to be reduced again at the end of this week by approximately 300 workers to a total of 1296 as compared with a peak quota of 1954.

This rate of reduction is faster than the anticipated 10 per cent weekly demobilization, but it is expected by Sam D. Merk, director of the county emergency relief administration, that the next reduction will be a smaller one. The quota reductions are being pro-rated among the communities of the county.

It is estimated by Frank W. Hibbs, chief CWA engineer, that 208 men will be given continued employment under the nine supplementary projects approved today.

They are practically all road projects. Widening the roadway and sloping banks will be done on the road from Santa Cruz county line to San Pedro creek, three projects in different sections.

Improving drainage, surfacing, widening, trimming brush and trees and cleaning up the roadside is scheduled on the road from Skyline boulevard to Menlo Park and similar work on the San Mateo-Half Moon Bay road. Bridge repairs on the Santa Cruz-San Pedro creek road are also included in the budget.

And the East Shivers!

Floral festivals are ushering in a gorgeous springtime in California. Oakdale, in Stanislaus county, leads off with its Almond Festival March second and third. Sacramento City follows with its exotic Camellia Day on March 4; Sierra Madre, at the foot of Mt. Wilson, celebrates its gorgeous Wisteria Fete March 10.

The 41-year-old vine covers more than a half acre of trellises around the old Fennel homestead, and its trunk has a girth of almost two and a half feet.

Then there's our own world-famous Blossom Festival in the offing, Fresno's Wildflower Show, and Hayward's Cherry Fete, just to mention a few we call to mind just now.

Sheriff Tells Losses, Gains From Options

Race Track Officials Decline Answers To Questions

Abatement proceedings brought by District Attorney Edmund Scott against the Baden Kennel Club of South San Francisco opened today before Superior Judge William F. James, sitting here, with Sheriff James J. McGrath citing alleged profits and losses sustained in the purchase of options.

Directors and employes of the track refused to give testimony when called to the witness stand by Scott, claiming dangers of incriminating themselves by giving testimony which might be used against them in criminal trials.

Scott offered immunity against prosecution if the track officials would testify, but Superior Judge James ruled that immunity could not be given in a civil action.

McGrath, star witness for the state, said he purchased two options on the third race at the Baden track on October 21. The options cost him $2 apiece, or $4. The dog came in second, and the options, he said, were redeemable at $5.20 each. He cashed one of the options, McGrath said, realizing a profit of $3.20 for the county. But in retaining the other, he surrendered a similar sum and reduced the profit to $1.20 on the $4 purchase price of the two options, he said.

On the sixth race, McGrath said, he purchased two preferred options on a dog named "Betty Fuller," which ran third. The options were of no value, therefore, and the transaction lost the county $4, McGrath said.

Following the running of a race, McGrath said, "there was some yelling, some excitement, and some mild profanity."

Scott introduced the options purchased by McGrath, a race program, and two form charts in seeking to present evidence of gambling by which he hopes to abate the track as a public nuisance.

R. C. Stickle, president of the Baden club, was the first witness on the stand. He refused to answer questions on the advice of his attorney, Harold Faulkner.

E. P. Kauffmann, director of the track, also claimed his constitutional rights in refusing testimony, and a similar position was taken by B. A. Raffelli, employe of the track. Kauffmann revealed that George Kneese, former director, was no longer connected with the Baden club.

McGrath followed them to the stand.

Dog track interests in San Mateo county and elsewhere are following the abatement proceedings closely because the future of dog racing is considered at stake in the action. If Scott succeeds in abating the track as a public nuisance, other counties were said to have similar plans in mind.

Summer, not spring, is the rainiest season in the United States as a whole.

Menlo Park took steps at the council meeting Tuesday night to see that the traffic speed laws are enforced on El Camino Real within the city limits.

Purchase of a new automobile for the police department was ordered, and appointment of a relief police officer was made.

The car purchase developed a debate among the council members. Councilman E. H. Hart and A. H. Anderson both opposed buying a car until more detailed specifications and information were obtained by the council, but they were overruled by Councilmen E. J. Crane and W. E. Dale and Mayor W. H. Weeden.

On the motion of Councilman Crane purchase of a car for $506.90 was authorized on a three-to-two vote.

H. M. Charshaf was named as relief officer to serve three hours a day at $2.50 a day. He is to devote much of his time to running down any speeders within the city limits.

New La Honda Road Project Wins CWA Aid

Five County Projects Will Get $117,129 Federal Grant

New construction on a two-mile section of the La Honda road from Woodruff creek to an extension with the old road at a cost of $29,000 is one of five CWA projects in San Mateo county receiving the approval today of Edward Macauley, federal civic works administrator for California.

Included in the expenditure of $117,129.33 on the five projects is a fund providing for construction of the proposed Pope street culvert and retaining wall crossing San Francisquito creek and its adjacent channel in North Palo Alto. Cost of this work, previously given consideration by San Mateo and Santa Clara counties and the city of Palo Alto, has been estimated at between $12,000 and $15,000.

According to Chief Engineer Frank W. Hibbs, the five work units in this county will mean continued employment for 464 men, as the projects are continuations of CWA work now in progress.

A second appropriation for the La Honda road is for $27,518.60 to pay 113 men in clearing, widening shoulders, sloping banks and improving drainage on a 3.8-mile stretch from the intersection of the Woodside road to the intersection of the Skyline boulevard.

The largest fund voted today was $57,000 for a sanitary relief sewer in the southern part of Burlingame. This will provide work for 196 men.

El Camino Real between Hillside drive and Mills avenue in Burlingame will have a storm water culvert and syphon, and the cutting up and removal of trees on this project will be completed.

The rainiest day previously, the 1931 date, saw 2.83 inches of water fall overnight. On December 24, 1931, there were 1.32 inches, and on December 21, 1933, the high mark for the day was 1.22 inches.

Three School Board Posts Up for Vote

Terms of J. D. Hedge, Hilton Expiring At Sequoia

Two trusteeships of the Sequoia Union High School district and one on the Redwood City Elementary School district board will be filled for three-year terms at the annual school elections to be held here Friday, March 30.

Those whose terms expire as high school trustees are James D. Hedge, president of the board and a member for 12 years, and Walter W. Hilton, clerk, who has served for three years. Neither has yet filed his intention of seeking re-election.

John W. Poole, who has served as chairman of the elementary school board during 15 of the 20 years of his membership, will be a candidate for re-election, he announced today.

"During the years I have served on the board with C. M. Doxsee and C. G. Uhlenberg there has never been a single word of dissension," Poole said today in declaring informally that he would seek return to the board for the three-year term. "I shall be glad to continue this service."

No contestants for the three posts have filed with Hilton or Uhlenberg, they reported today. Final date for filing is March 20, 10 days prior to the election.

Members of the high school board whose terms do not expire at this time are Walter T. Kellogg of Redwood City, Charles H. Merrill of Menlo Park and Merritt R. Hosmer of San Carlos.

COUNTY WILL FOLLOW WITH SAME ACTION

Steps taken by the property owners of Redwood City in authorizing the establishment of a 17-foot setback on El Camino Real will be followed up by a recommendation that the county planning commission take similar action, Hugh Pomeroy, advisor to the commission, reported last night.

Pomeroy said the county did not wish to take the initiative in the matter because so much of the highway runs through municipalities.

The planning advisor said that huge costs would be saved in establishing the setback by preventing permanent-type construction, which usually means an enormous expense in replacement, he said.

Democrats Organize Redwood City Unit

Dr. Robert Frazier was named temporary chairman, and E. A. Fletcher was appointed temporary secretary at the organization meeting here last night of the Redwood City unit of the San Mateo County Democratic Club.

The meeting was held in the firehouse auditorium. The next meeting, when permanent officers will be named, will be held March 12.

LINE OF PARKED CARS DAMAGED IN FREAK CRASH

Six automobiles were damaged in one single crash on Broadway here Tuesday night.

Not a single person was hurt, but as a result of the series of collisions Mrs. Louise Jones, 24, of 504 Geary street, San Francisco, was arrested on a charge of drunken driving.

Mrs. Jones' car, according to the police report, swept down a line of five diagonally-parked automobiles on the south side of Broadway near El Camino Real, crashed into the rear ends of each of them and forced them all up on the sidewalk. One of the machines was thrust through a plate glass show window in the Roosevelt Market.

All five parked cars were damaged, as well as Mrs. Jones' own machine. The parked cars were owned by E. A. Wallin of the Bridgeland Apartments, Bob Murphy of 2639 Broadway, Joseph Fitzpatrick of 2010 Broadway, N. P. Walter of San Carlos and an unidentified motorist.

Mrs. Jones was still held in jail today with bail set at $500 cash or $1000 bond. Deputy District Attorney Harold Anderson said that he would file the drunken driving complaint later today with Police Judge Edward I McAuliffe.

E. D. Beylard Will Filed for Probate

Probate of the will of Edward Duplessis Beylard, who died at Pau, France, on February 6, leaving a San Mateo county estate, is sought in a petition filed by Harry N. Stetson in the superior court here today.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sophy Bryan of Pau, France, a daughter and the sole heir and legatee, according to the will, was named as executrix of the estate but declined to act and requested Stetson to assume the duties of executor.

Beylard's estate is valued at more than $10,000. Attorneys for the petitioner are Wright, Wright and Larson.

The daisy originally was called "the day's eye" because it opened only in the daytime.
